A big chest first! Always!*

Research shows people usually judge a guy by the size of his chest. Why—? Look around. Do guys parade about town in swim suits? No! Everybody wears clothes. While your other muscles can be hidden under clothing, a big chest stands out at first glance. Your stomach, thigh and leg muscles can be concealed under pants. Arm muscles can be hidden under sleeves. But a big chest is an attention-getter. It can indicate virility, dynamism and courage.

TUB TROUBLE

"Alexander is playing baseball. Cookie went for a drive and Blondie is out shopping," sighed Dagwood as he leaned back in his easy chair. "This is my chance to really relax," he said happily. "I'll grab a good book, run a steaming hot bath and relax in the tub."

He sprang out of his chair. "I'm all alone. Nothing can possibly disturb me," he said as he strolled over to the bookcase.

Dagwood found one that interested him. He pulled it out of the bookcase and with the book in his hand, he marched straight to the bathroom.

Dagwood plugged in the tub's stopper. He poured in some bubble bath and spun the faucet handles. Instantly, hot water surged out of the spigot. Water splashed into the tub and churned the bubble bath into rising mountains of suds.

"This is going to be wonderful," predicted Dagwood as he put his book down near the tub.

Quickly, he turned away from the tub and rushed out of the bathroom. Into the bedroom he dashed. Dagwood slipped out of his street clothes and slipped on his bathrobe.

"Hot tub, here I come!" he cried as he knotted the robe's sash and dashed back into the bathroom.

A sea of suds was floating on top of the water filled tub. Swiftly, Dagwood shut off the water.

He could hardly wait to hop into that hot, soapy water. He dropped his robe, picked up his book and prepared to step into the tub.

His big toe was just about to touch the bubbly bath when the doorbell rang. The doorbell rang again and again and again!

"All right, all right, I'm coming!" shouted Dagwood angrily as he pulled his foot away from the water and sadly put on his robe.

Out of the bathroom and down the stairs he zoomed like a man shot out of a cannon. He jerked the front door open and immediately the bell stopped ringing.

There, before him, standing on the Bumstead's front porch, was a group of ladies.

"We're the Every Other Saturday Afternoon Bridge Club," announced one of the ladies as she stared at Dagwood. "Isn't Blondie expecting us?" inquired the lady. "We're supposed to play Bridge here this afternoon."

"Blondie isn't home," replied Dagwood. "Your Bridge game isn't until next Saturday," he explained.

"Oh my goodness!" exclaimed the lady in surprise. "We've got the wrong every other Saturday afternoon. We're sorry if we've disturbed you, Mr. Bumstead," apologized the lady as she and her friends walked away from the Bumstead's house.

Dagwood slammed the door. He grumbled to himself angrily as he climbed the stairs. He shook his head in disbelief as he walked back into the bathroom and prepared to slip into the tub.

Just then, the telephone rang. Dagwood tried to ignore the phone, but it wouldn't stop ringing. He stormed out into the hall and pulled the phone off of the hook.

"Hello!" he shouted into the phone.

"Good day, Sir," answered a voice. "Is your refrigerator running?"

"Hold on a second and I'll check," answered Dagwood politely.

Back down the stairs he ran. He zipped into the kitchen and pulled open the refrigerator door. It was working perfectly. Quickly, Dagwood picked up the phone extension in the kitchen.

"Hello," said Dagwood. "I just checked my refrigerator. It's running," he stated.

"Well, you'd better catch it before it runs away!" laughed the voice at the other end of the line.

Dagwood slammed the phone down. He'd fallen for the oldest trick in the book and he was boiling mad. If he didn't get into the tub and cool off quick, he'd explode.

As soon as he walked out of the kitchen, the doorbell rang again. Dagwood stomped over to the door and flung it open. A short, traveling salesman was standing on the stoop with a suitcase full of merchandise.

"Good day, Sir," said the salesman as he smiled. "I represent the 'Handy Dandy Dohickey and Gadget Corporation'. We sell socks, clocks, mops, tops and painted rocks. I have underclothes and clippers for cutting nails on toes. We also carry ladies' hose. Let me show you some of our wonderful wares," he said as he turned away from Dagwood and bent over his suitcase.

One, swift kick from Dagwood sent the salesman sailing down the sidewalk. The door slammed again! Again, Dagwood tried to make it up the stairs. Again, the doorbell rang!

When Dagwood opened the door, he found Blondie standing outside. She was holding packages filled with groceries.

"I forgot my key," she explained. Immediately, Blondie noticed how mad Dagwood looked. "Why don't you take a nice, hot bath, dear," she advised as she walked past him. "It'll relax you."

"In the game of football you have to be a consistent and accurate performer. Shooting is the same way. In both, you must practice to develop your skills.

Practice makes perfect and in no time you will be hitting bullseyes. I know because I have been hitting bullseyes for over 30 years with footballs and Daisy B-B guns.

Now my son Ken and I are having fun shooting together. I feel like I am helping him to learn about the proper use of guns as well as developing confidence in his own abilities which should help him succeed in life."
